

4D News

November 8, 2013

I hope everyone is adjusting well to fourth grade! It has been a great couple of months!

Weather Kids

Next week, News Channel 12 will be coming to Holland Hill to film a special segment of Weather Kids with students in 4D and 3K. Two lucky fourth grade students will actually give a live weather report with Weatherman, Peter Piorek, at 10:01 am and 10:11 am. The full segment will air hourly on Thursday, November 14th starting at 5:20 pm.

Scholastic Books

An account on Scholastic.com has been set up for you to order books for your child online. Please follow the link and code below to earn free books for our classroom! So far, we have received 15 FREE books! ☺

Homework

Just a friendly reminder, homework will come home Monday through Thursday. Each night students are responsible for Reading and Math. On occasion, students will be assigned writing homework and a due date will be given with those assignments. Students who are participating in strings are responsible for making up the work they missed in class as homework, if necessary. Please let me know if students are unable to complete their homework due to unforeseen circumstances.

Reading Logs

Reading logs are given every Monday and are expected to be filled in every night. Students are responsible for filling in the title, time, and challenge. Every log will have a reading assignment on the back in order to hold students accountable for reading at home. Please encourage your child to read as much as possible! I know it can be challenging, but I do reward those who take the challenge with raffle tickets!

Xtra Math

All students have been set up on xtramath.org. Please encourage your child to go on the website 3-5 times a week in order to help build their fluency in addition, subtraction, division, and multiplication. Plus, it only takes 10 minutes! If you lost your pin number, please let me know.

Coats

As the end of fall and the start of winter approaches us, please send your child to school with a warm jacket or coat. We go outside for recess and occasionally the weather gets a bit chilly!
