

First Grade Newsletter

October 6, 2015

Dear Parents,

We hope you had a wonderful weekend! Can you believe we've been in school for a month! The children are really starting to settle into First Grade!

Homework for the Week:

Monday-use the word wall menu to practice this week's words (I, like, me, and, the). There will be a test on Friday!

Tuesday -Please complete the I Like Me paper that is coming home in your child's Take-Home folder for homework tonight.

Thursday - Math review

Reading Workshop

This week we are talking about how books feel when we read them. Sometimes they feel too easy when you know all the words by heart. They may feel too hard when you have to use your strategies to figure out every single word. Books should feel just right! These books require the kids to use strategies to figure out some tricky words, but they feel successful when they are able to do it!

Writing Workshop

The children very much enjoy Writing Workshop! Last week we taught the children how to liven up our stories by unfreezing characters in the story. We learned that we can do this in our own writing by making the characters move or talk.

Math Workshop

Last week we worked on various classroom investigations where the kids practiced decomposing or breaking apart numbers up to 20.

Respectfully yours,
Abigail Barzottini
Allison Cabezas/Gina Marcheschi
Debbie Jacobs