

Dear Veterans,

Thank you so much for fighting for our country. You risk your lives for us, which means so much to all of us. You never give up. You go far, far away from your family if you have to. That means a lot. You never know what is ahead of you, but you are always ready, for a change might happen, and your life could be different forever. You do that for us, and that means a lot.

Veterans Day is not just giving thanks for the ones that have risked their lives. It is giving thanks to all of the Veterans. The ones that have served, or retired, or the ones who are still serving to this day. The ones who don't even know what is going on in their family. The ones going deep down, down, down in their submarine, ready if something is going to happen. The same with the Army, the Navy, the Coast Guards, and the Air force, or any other type of job. That means a lot.

We will always remember you. We think about you in the moment of silence after the pledge. We give thanks, so much of it. It takes a lot of courage to go to War to help us. You are all in my heart. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

Love,

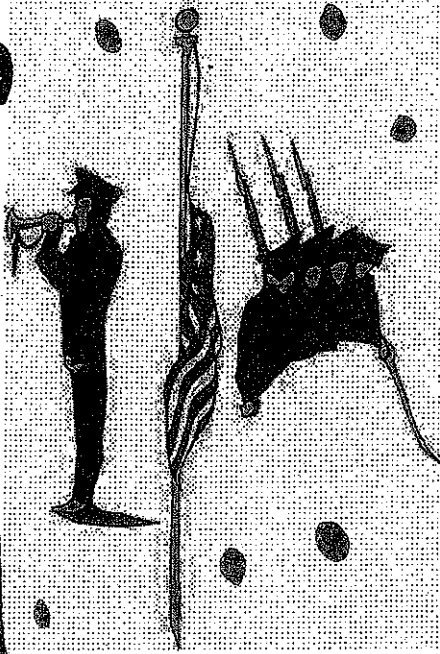

Caroline Garrett and all families over America

What Veterans Day Means

By Emma Shaughnessy

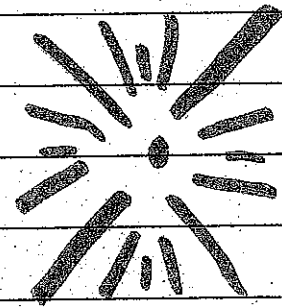

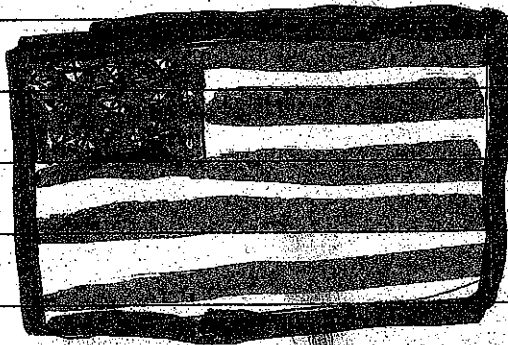

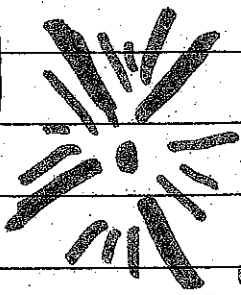

One of the most important days of the year is Veterans Day! It is a day to honor everyone who risks their life for our freedom. They go to war and fight for our country. If we did not have them we would not be able to vote, or just be who we are. Take this day to honor everyone who has helped this country be what it is today. On Veterans Day honor all the people who were in the war and those who continue to serve, even if you know them or not. A simple "thank you for your service" may not seem like a lot to you but it make them feel very important. You can also just send a card or maybe a care package. It's not hard to do but it can make them feel very special. Remember to honor everyone who serves our country, all of the veterans!

I think Veterans day is a day to honor the people that risked there lives for are freedom. That's not all they do. They leave home, family, friends to do this. They put there lives before are. With out them we wouldn't have as much as we have. Some time little kids cry if there show isn't on or if they don't get a toy. Well Veterans don't even have T.V or a mall to go shopping. With out them we wouldn't have many rights. So if you see a veteran or some one that risked there life just say thank you.

Veterans day in the U.S.A

November the month Thanksgiving right ? It's not just that to some people. November 11th is the day of thanking veterans for all they have done for us. Think about ^{it} ↓ We could be speaking Japanese, German or even Russian if it wasn't for our veterans because they protect or protected ^{our} are country at one time.

From a ship captain to a commando they are all equally alike.

They once had a part in defending or protecting our country.

Military men and women are all around us. From your bus driver to your uncle. That's why we should celebrate Veterans Day everywhere. You can celebrate by calling a relative that served or is still serving.

We celebrate Martin Luther King Jr. day and Presidents Day but we may have had to celebrate Russian holidays or even

German if it wasn't for ^{our} are veterans. If it wasn't for are veterans

we could all ^b ne slaves to other countries or be ^a part of another country. In conclusion, ^{show} I think Veterans Day should be celebrated everywhere in the U.S.A. People should celebrate it more and not just enjoy the day off.

"50 stars"

11/5/14

To me, Veterans Day is a day to remember those who should be remembered. To thank each and every member of those forces that served at that time and even now. To honor those who haven't been honored enough. To share the love of freedom. Many lives were lost in World War I and II but they knew they were fighting for a good cause. So when you look at the American flag to this day and you see 50 stars you'll know why they're still there.

I think Veterans Day is very important because, it's a day to honor those who served us, and our country. Veterans Day is a day, to thank, the men and women, who were in the military. We celebrate Veterans Day, to thank the men and women, that worked hard, to protect, our country. Without our veterans, our country might not have been this great, as it is, right now. Without veterans, our country, might have still been in great danger. We should be thankful, that we have such great people, protecting us, and our country, so we can all stay safe.

Veterans work, so our country, can be, and remain, peaceful. Veterans Day is a day, to recognize those people who have fought so courageously in World War I and to celebrate the peace that now, exists. Some veterans have sadly, died, trying, and struggling, to protect our country. But on Veterans Day, we can also thank those who have survived.

In the United States, people remember Veterans Day with celebrations, parades, speeches, and special services. If you have relatives, who are, or were, in the military Veterans Day, is a day to thank them, for trying to protect those, that they loved. Veterans Day is a very special, and honorable, day.
